

THE FOG HORN

Issued now and then for the edification of those we know.

After the Chicago conventions, a reporter went the rounds to gain some idea as to what our w. k. politicians thought of the results. We first looked up the "Bull Moose," knowing they held the balance of power.

Harold Ross: Yes, I will support Hughes. No; I didn't attend the Progressive convention. I was in Portland on important business but within reach of Oyster Bay by the long distance phone. I also brought home an extra paper giving full details.

A. B. Lake: I misplaced my "Bull Moose" button somewhere, and not being able to secure another one, I naturally lost interest in the matter. I might run for office again, so do not wish to be quoted.

C. E. Lake: Yes, I was a delegate at the first "Moose" convention. I also supported Teddy. I take much interest in reading his book telling of the many ferocious animals he killed on his hunting trip in Africa. He certainly is some shot.

Jas. H. Sheldon: I'm glad Teddy is not going to run on the Progressive ticket for I do not wish to again lose my vote. I hope Hughes will be elected. It was my duty to be in Chicago at the convention, but I had to go up the slough to pick up quite a bunch of shad.

C. C. Cassatt: Yes, I am well pleased at the result, so far as the nomination for president goes. As to his running mate, I will make no comment at this time. Yes; I know Roosevelt quite well; in fact, I was on Washington street in Portland when his automobile passed.

A. W. Mueller: I have no objection to Hughes having his name on the same ballot with me. I hope both of us will be successful.

Joe Day: I don't know exactly what to do. Wilson is a Democrat, and I am considered such. Hughes' resignation leaves a vacancy on the supreme court bench.

Wm. Ross: I expect to support Hughes, and will also speak to Dr. Ed. about the matter.

Mrs. Dodd: Wilson has been a good friend to me. All I have to say.

Tom Lott: If Wilson doesn't soon do something to liberate our poor soldier boys from Carranza's corral in Mexico, I'm going to get Cox, Ayer, Tom Watts, John Lindsey and several other old boys who were the blue, and go down to Mexico and liberate our soldiers. In my days, we were always watchful but not so strong on the waiting.

Wash. Muckle: My firm deals in war munitions, so it would be unwise for me to make remarks for publication. The war will continue until it is ended.

J. W. Allen: I was a little late for last council meeting and didn't hear Quick read the minutes. I will have to look the matter up.

M. Saxon: Yes, it is true that I have promised Hughes that I will do all I can for him. I am sure of Warren precinct.

Judge Eakin: Of course the resignation of Hughes leaves a vacancy on the bench, but I have an idea Wilson will not wait for my term of office to expire before making an appointment. I understand that both the president and W. B. Dillard are natives of Virginia and this fact might have some weight with the president in appointing a successor to Hughes.

Jim McDonald: Hughes has nothing on me so far as nominations go. I will wait until November before I make any positive statement.

M. E. Miller: I think the St. Helens Commercial Club will endorse Hughes.

Harry Bennett: Of course I will support Hughes, but as a usual thing I am not friendly to men who wear beards.

R. S. Hattan: I am too old a bird at this political game to make any remarks. I have always made it a rule never to give cub reporters an interview until the county clerk has made an official canvass of the vote.

A. F. Barnett: I intend to vote for Hughes for he is the Republican nominee. I am sure he would return the compliment if he lived in this county. The law makes it incumbent on me to place my own name on the ballot no matter how modest I might be about bringing my name to the attention of the voters.

Martin White: I have managed many campaigns, including several for myself. If Hughes needs me, I will gladly volunteer my services.

ST. HELENS-WARREN ROAD BEING IMPROVED

Beginning just on the outskirts of the city, Roadmaster Abry has a force of men making needed improvements to the highway leading to Warren. The road is being widened, some of the sharp curves taken out, and will be macadamized as far as McNulty creek bridge. The improvement is a much needed one and is being done by the county corps of workmen as no bids were received for the work, although it was advertised.

DISCHARGING ARMS

We have received the following letter from a subscriber at Yankton: Will you kindly publish the law regarding boys carrying shotguns, hunting at any time and anywhere, discharging the guns regardless of people or stock. This danger has been going on for some time until it has become a nuisance to the residents of the Yankton neighborhood. Cattle are pelted with shot. The old Bunker Hill road in the vicinity of Yankton is not safe to travel on and the people here want a stop put to it.

There is no law forbidding boys to carry any firearms. There is a law, however, prohibiting shooting on the highway which provides a fine or imprisonment, or both.

If cattle or other animals are injured by reckless hunters, they are liable for the damages. Also they may be apprehended and fined for trespass. The law is within reach and if those residents along the Bunker Hill road wish to have the nuisance complained of abated, they may swear out a warrant for those known to be guilty, and the officers will do the rest.

FOREST HOME REACHES PORT

Captain Dowling's Son Seriously Injured.

Many of our citizens will remember the sailing of the Forest Home from this port last fall for Sydney, Australia, when Captain Dowling's son and his young bride made their wedding tour on that vessel. The Forest Home landed in Portland Saturday, after a delayed voyage.

Falling from aloft to the deck, H. W. Dowling, mate of the schooner, was so badly injured during the first part of the voyage as to make it advisable for the vessel to stop at Pago Pago, Samoa Islands, where he was placed in a hospital. In addition to sustaining a broken arm his body was badly bruised.

The Forest Home is in command of Captain Dowling, father of the injured man. The craft will be placed in the Oregon dry dock today for cleaning and painting, after which she will proceed to Westport to load lumber for the return trip to Australia.

Calms and light winds were encountered by the Forest Home practically all the way from the equator to the river, says Captain Dowling, greatly prolonging the passage. The schooner left Sydney March 4, and the voyage extended over a period of 95 days, a month or so longer than the same route is traversed by the average sailing vessel. No other craft was sighted throughout the passage.

The governor of Pago Pago, which is an American possession, was spoken of very highly by Captain Dowling this morning. He states the executive assisted in getting his son ashore where he could obtain medical treatment. Afterward he furnished a tug for towing the vessel out to sea, extending many other courtesies.
